DISSOLVED THE BONDS

Mrs. Clara May Erwin Coleman Obtaining Absolute Divorce, With Alimony.

GIVEN CUSTODY OF CHILD

Mother is Broken Down by Severe Tax on Her Strength.

In February, 1900, the Washington papers contained a notice of proceedings in equity for injunction by Mrs. Clara May Erwin Coleman, through her attorneys, against Walter G. Coleman, her husband, and the Manhattan Life Insurance Company. The court was asked to cancel an assignment executed by the complainant to the defendant of all her interest in a certain life insurance policy, and to enjoin the defendant from disposing of it. John the defendant, in the bill that Miss Clara May Erwin, of Staunton, was married to Walter G. Coleman December, 1882, and that they ceased to live together as man and wife in February, 1888. The defendant, in the bill, that her husband had had his life insured in her favor by taking out a policy for $5,000 in the Manhattan Life Insurance Company. A short time before these proceedings were instituted her husband notified her that he had accepted a position in the Philippines, and that, owing to the additional risk, the company demanded a large increase in the amount of premium. Taking him at his word, she made a legal assignment of the policy to her husband that he might have it so changed as to allow him to go to the tropics, but declared that the assignment was procured by fraud, and therefore appealed to the court to have it cancelled. The appeal was granted when the company refused to cancel the policy, and she had applied for the money on the policy.

Subsequently Mrs. Coleman began in the Chancery Court of this city a suit against her husband for absolute divorce, with alimony, on the ground of brutal treatment non-support and wilful abandonment. This decree, with alimony, was granted on June 28th, and Mrs. Coleman now has possession of her son, York Coleman, who is a promising youth of this city. She was prostrated by the nervous strain to which she was subjected, and she will soon go to a sanatorium for treatment. Her physicians believe, however, that with proper rest and attention her health will be restored. Mrs. Coleman is a descendant of Governor Nicholas, the first Governor of New York, and is related to the distinguished family of Irvings in that State, the name Irving and Erwin being originally Irwin. She is a woman of refinement and education, and from time to time has done much creditable work with her pen.

DR. DORSETT ARRESTED.

Well Known Dentist Wanted in Norfolk—Promptly Bailed.

Detective Rose, of Norfolk, came to Richmond last night to take back with him Dr. Dorsett, a well-known dentist of this city.

Dr. Dorsett is charged on a warrant with having passed worthless checks upon a citizen of Norfolk on June 19th.

Detective Rose said last night that he knew very little of the case, except that Dr. Dorsett is alleged to have passed two worthless checks cashed through the endorsement of a citizen of Norfolk.

The arrest was made by Capt. Tomlinson on information from Norfolk.

Dorsett was bailed for his appearance in the Police Court this morning, with Dr. Wright as his bondsman.

It is understood that he will defend himself by claiming that when he drew the checks he thought he had the funds in bank.

It was said last night that the Norfolk party has been in correspondence with Dr. Dorsett, with the view of settling the matter.

The Convention Debates.

The work of the committee engaged in editing and publishing the debates of the convention of 1901-'02 has been completed, so far as the editing is concerned, and the contract for the publication of the work has been let to the J. H. Printing Company of this city.

The debates have been boiled down to a space of from 2,700 to 3,000 pages, and will be published in two volumes, each of from 1,200 to 1,500 pages. It is anticipated that the volumes will have been printed and bound before the end of the year.

The work of editing the debates of the convention was entrusted to Messrs. James H. Lind and Charles C. Glass, but Colonel Lawrence S. Mayo, formerly of Lynchburg, has done most of the actual work, under their direction.

Their Hurts Were Many.

Dr. Leonard spent a busy time yesterday, as this list of calls will testify:

2:45—Miller & Miller's factory; J. E. Wilson, 100 North 11th Street.

5:30—Harrison Hendricks; hit on head; five stitches.

Contractor for Tobacco.

Mr. Charles W. Spicer is at the head of a movement to get the government to give out the contract for tobacco for the navy earlier in the season in order to let the contractor have a chance to buy his tobacco in smaller lots than is now possible.

Under the present arrangement the contracts have to be filled in so short a time, he says, that large lots have to be bought at once, and the contractor has no chance to buy in small lots, and he has no chance to buy in small lots.

Today is the regular weekly sales day on the exchange.

Williams's Body Unclaimed.

The body of E. R. Williams, who was killed by a fall early Sunday morning, is still at Billy's undertaking house. Nothing has yet been heard from his relatives in Ohio.

Saved Child's Life.

Louise Barnes, infant of John Barnes, of No. 218 East Main Street, got a lot of bicarbonate of mercury in tablets yesterday about noon. She swallowed the poison and the ambulance was summoned. Dr. Leonard resorted to heroic measures and saved the child's life.

CITY WINS TWO IMPORTANT SUITS

Southern Railway Must Pay Tax on Rolling Stock Here. Hogan Case.

A special term of the Circuit Court was held yesterday and two cases of interest were decided, both in favor of this city. Judge Scott decided that the proper place for the Southern Railway to pay taxes on its rolling stock was Richmond, thus affirming the decision of the Corporation Commission. The case will be appealed by the attorney for Manchester, as the decision will cut down that city's revenues by one-eighth.

In the other case the court handed down an opinion that a city has a right to remove menaces to navigation in the shape of sunken vessels from its harbor, and to charge the cost of such removal to the owners of the vessels. A sunken barge belonging to Peter Hagan, of Philadelphia, was blown up by the city authorities, after repeated efforts had been made to get Mr. Hagan to remove it. The cost of the removal of the barge was $442.74, and the city sued Hagan for this amount.

This case, too, will be appealed to the Supreme Court of Virginia.

Shoplifters at Work.

With the opening up of the reduction sales at the big dry goods stores the work of the shoplifters grows. Beta Brooks and Mary James were the first to develop. They entered a Broad Street store to "look around" and were caught by a store detective. They were taken to the Second Station, where a lot of goods were found in their possession.

Justice John in the Police Court yesterday, in the hearing on a day after the request of counsel for the accused, so that witnesses might be secured.

Car Tickets for City Fathers.

The resolution authorizing the purchase of one hundred street car tickets a month for the use of each member of the Common Council and of the Board of Aldermen, is now in the hands of Mayor Taylor, who has it under consideration. He is undecided whether or not he will approve it. The law allows him five days to make up his mind.

Will Raise the Fine.

Justice John, abetted by the police department, is increasing his efforts to keep negro women off the streets at night. Whenever they are brought before him he puts a fine and imprisonment upon them, and now threatens to raise the fine to $10 and twenty days in jail for a first offense.

Special Meeting of Council.

Mr. R. L. Peters, vice-president of the Common Council, has called a meeting of that body for Thursday night at 8 o'clock, to receive a report from the Committee on Streets and the Committee on Finance, and to transact other business. President Bloomberg is out of the city.

Shoes Got Him in Trouble.

One pair of shoes got John Palmer, colored, in trouble. He was alleged to have sold the shoes from a friend. Then he got a colored woman to pawn them. Justice John sent Palmer to jail for sixty days yesterday.

MEAT GOES UP IN SMOKE

Stubborn Fire Yesterday in Packing House of Forbes & Company.

ASSISTANT CHIEF IS HURT

Ladder on Which Captain Shaw Stood, Slipped—Damage Covered by Insurance.

The meat packing and storage plant of W. S. Forbes and Company, a two-story brick structure, fronting on Ninth Street between Canal and Byrd Streets, and running entirely through the block to Tenth Street, was partially damaged by fire yesterday afternoon, and flooded with water on both floors.

The building and stock were insured through the agency of J. B. Moore for between $40,000 and $50,000. The building is but slightly burned and the stock more damaged by water and smoke than by the flames. The fire was confined to the second floor and hardly two-thirds of this floor was seriously damaged by fire. The worst injury from fire was in the smoke-house in the extreme eastern end of the long structure, which is pretty well gutted, floor and roof. It was here that the fire originated and to charge the cost of such removal to the owners of the vessels. A sunken barge belonging to Peter Hagan, of Philadelphia, was blown up by the city authorities, after repeated efforts had been made to get Mr. Hagan to remove it. The cost of the removal of the barge was $442.74, and the city sued Hagan for this amount.
